ITEMS.

····The Sultan had represented to the ambassadors of foreign governments that he desired to settle the difficulties with Russia peaceably; but as his ancestors had gained their empire by the sword, the Turks would perish in its support; or if fate ordained that their country should fall to another master, they would quit Europe as they entered it—sword in hand.

····The Bronson indignation meeting at the New York Exchange on Monday was largely attended, and very decided in condemnation of the Government's removal of the Collector.

····A Washington letter says; "It is supposed that Col. Orr, of South Carolina, will secure the caucus nomination and support of the Administration for the Speakership. Mr. Orr made the first public movement designed to bring his native State back into the connection with national politics. Very shortly after the nomination of Pierce and King, he proclaimed on the floor of the House that the candidates were entirely acceptable to South Carolina, and that they would receive her vote without a contest."

····A rumor was prevalent in Vienna that the Russians would attempt to cross the Danube the 9th or the 10th ultimo. This rumor rested on no foundation. On the 10th the Sultan requested the British Ambassador to send for the fleets; which request was assented to. The fleets were to enter the Dardanelles, but not the Black Sea, except to repel any hostile movement of the enemy. Voluntary gifts of all descriptions continued to flow into the Turkish treasury.

····The Declaration of War was to be read in all the Mosques, on the 7th instant. It was not expected that hostilities would commence before the 25th instant. Reschid Pasha's son was the bearer of the summons to Prince Gartschakoff. He also conveyed to Omar definite instructions how to act in event of the Russian refusing to leave the territories. Duplicates of these despatches were sent to the Commanders of the Turkish forces in Asia; so that the action of the two divisions of the army might be in concert. The British public are as yet in the dark, respecting the intentions of that Government in the present crisis, and will probably remain so, until after the meeting of Parliament.

····Chevalier Hulsemann paid his respects to Secretary Marcy yesterday, but what transpired between them is not exactly known although, from the fact that a courier arrived from Vienna on the night previous and proceeded post haste to the residence of the Russian Ambassador, it is surmised that the Chevalier's visit was in some way connected with the Russo-Turkish difficulty. Russia, it is well known, is desirous of securing the neutrality of the United States in the expected struggle, in which case the Czar, backed by Austria and Prussia, would feel authorized to bid defiance to all the other powers of Europe combined. It is broadly intimated that it was the purpose of gaining this very object of secularity that produced the quiet and secret arrangement of the Russian affair.—New York Herald.

The Slave Question.

This question is already being informed of the [illegible] coming from the [illegible] to the past few weeks [illegible] and advanced from one eighth of a penny [illegible] with an upward tendency. The following items taken from the telegraphic despatches of the Charleston papers, contain the most important news in relation to the Eastern [illegible]

"Eastern affairs are unchanged. Omar Pasha's summons to the Russians has been published. It is temperate and manly. Gortschakoff's reply is short and boorish. Hostilities appeared to commence on the 25th ult. Omar Pasha is actively preparing. Abdi Kader is offered a command by the Turks, but awaits the permission of the French Government. The Turks are voluntarily pouring their treasure into the Treasury. The fleets have been ordered into the Dardanelles, but will not enter the Black Sea, except in case of the hostile advance of the Russians. The Sultan has granted an English Company the contract for a Ship Canal from Rassova to the Black Sea, thus superseding the mouths of the Danube.

"The Russian Ambassador in Paris denies that the Czar threatens the extermination of the Turks; on the contrary, it was reported that he (the Czar) would soon issue a peace manifesto.

"The latest news by telegraph to Liverpool from Constantinople is dated the 7th. The communications had not entered the Dardanelles, but were momentarily expected. The fleets of Constantinople (either) which had gone into winter quarters, had been ordered to re-prepare for sea. A despatch from St. Petersburg says that preparations for war were proceeding rapidly. The Emperor returned from Revel on the 13th. 200 ships were lying off Odessa loading with grain."

Reports of Boards of Commissioners.

We publish this week the Report of the Board of Commissioners of the Poor, and of the Western Board of Roads, for Chester District. Those of the other Boards will be published next week. The Report of the Commissioners of the Poor is very full and satisfactory, and will be read with interest by all those who are interested in the unfortunate class to which it pertains.

"Some Punkins."

Our friend, Mr. DANIEL DUNLAP, residing on Rocky Creek, calls before us, or rather told to us the dimensions of an enormous pumpkin, which is to all intents and purposes "some." In fact, it is without doubt the identical vegetable which won for the species this very expressive appellative. The said pumpkin measured seventy inches in circumference, and weighed eighty pounds down weight, and grew on upland into the bargain. Bring on your vegetables!

Editorial Miscellany.

Ordinary's Election.

It will be seen by reference to a notice in another column that the Clerk of the Court in pursuance of his authority, has ordered the election for Ordinary to take place on Monday, the 19th December next. This gives our candidates but a short time in which to 'operate,' but it will be attended with the advantage of having the 'agony' soon over.

There are but three candidates as yet formally announced—NICHOLAS COLVIN, Esq., Dr. ELI CORNWELL and JOHN T. WALKER. We hear other names spoken of, but whether 'by authority' or not, we cannot say.

The Thespians.

Our correspondent has kindly relieved us of the duty of reporting the success which attended the performances of the Thespians on last Friday evening, and it only remains for us to say that the performers, generally, acquitted themselves in a manner satisfactory to themselves, and were rewarded by the marked appreciation of a large and attentive audience.—Another exhibition is announced for next Friday, at which the popular melo-drama, Robert Macaire, will again be presented, with a new and highly entertaining after-piece. As the proceeds of this performance will be presented as a compliment to Mr. WARDEN, to whose kind efforts the audience on the last evening owe much of their enjoyment, we know that the ladies will pardon the exception made to the general rule, and grace the occasion with their presence and smiles.

New Advertisements.

The advertisement of Messrs. DAVEGA & BENNETT appears in this week's issue, setting forth in strong array their claims to a liberal share of patronage. They have opened an extensive and well-selected Fall and Winter stock, and are of course, fully prepared to meet the wants of their customers and the rest of mankind. And in the way of luxuries, the ladies will find on their counter a very pretty assortment of Fancy Dress Goods, with which they cannot fail to be pleased. Read the advertisement.

Our friend RICKETS, of Columbia, has been so long silent, that we had concluded that he had either made his fortune and retired to private life, or, by reason of the unusual tightness of the circulating medium, had "busted" and gone regularly out. A glance at our columns, however, will show that he is still in the "Direct Importation" business, driving as brisk a trade as formerly. He is peculiarly happy in serving Crockery "for two," and we seriously advise our friends who have just escaped from the "honey-moon," to give him a call, on their visit to town this winter.

Harper's Magazine.

The November number contains the usual quantity of original and well selected matter, profusely and elegantly illustrated. Thackeray's new work, "The Newcomes, Memoirs of a most Respectable Family," is begun in this number, and promises to be well worth the perusal. Harper understands the laugh-and-grow-fat Philosophy, and furnishes a "Drawer" full of laughter-provoking anecdotes, which are alone worth the price of the Magazine. Harper & Brothers, New-York. Price $3.

Putnam's Monthly.

We have not yet been able to examine the November number of this young candidate for the popular favor, though a casual glance at the table of contents assures us that it contains several articles of value. As a literary Magazine, entirely original and American in its character, Putnam's Monthly has already acquired an enviable position, and, if kept in the proper course, must earn a world-wide reputation. The contents are as follows: A Moose-head Journal; Odenser; Works of Sir Wm. Hamilton; The Crucifix; The Potiphars in Paris; Casserology; Rouen; The Pacific Rail Road; Reminiscences of an Ex-Jesuit, Wensley; The American Ideal Woman; Mr. Collier's Shakespeare; The Life of a Dog; Barleby; Characters in Bleak House; Editorial Notes. Price $3. New-York.

Miss Brenan.

We take pleasure in recommending to the consideration of several of our friends, who have frequently rallied us because of our high appreciation of Miss BRENAN'S vocal powers, the following extract from the N. York Musical World and Times. Mr. WILLIS the editor, is an accomplished gentleman and an adept in the science, and his judgment in musical matters may well be considered final—so far as our good friends are concerned, at least. Hear him talk:

"A social and widely extended circle up town has had its ear charmed the past summer by a shower of sweet tones from an American nightingale newly alighted among them. As the public at large is likely to know more of this musical stranger, we beg leave now to introduce to its sympathy and admiration Miss Ellen Brenan, of Columbia, South-Carolina. The tone of Miss Brenan's voice is the pure music, unalloyed—neither sung out, nor sung through; the down is still richly upon the tone. The compass is quite extended. The cultivation of this uncommonly fine organ has already considerable progressed—much progress has been made this summer under the tutelage of distinguished artists, who from the mere pleasure of the thing have volunteered their services. Miss Brenan sails for Europe the coming spring. May we not hope to hear her publicly in New-York before she sails?"

The Crops.

From all parts of our own and the adjoining Districts, we have heard the most doleful accounts of the end plight in which the late heavy frosts have placed the cotton crops. It is generally conceded that the making process has been effectually checked, and that with the most favorable circumstances, our farmers will be unable to reach more than half the average estimate. Indeed, from the information given us by a gentleman, who makes a boast of his fine land and usually makes excellent crops, and who says that he will not gather as much as two bales to the hand, we are inclined to think that the result may even fall short of the estimate made above.

We learn from our exchanges that the frost of the 25th ult., was general throughout the cotton-growing States, and that the yield will be everywhere as sparing as in our own "diggin."

The Japan Expedition.

By the latest accounts we learn that the expedition under the command of Commodore PERRY, having for its object the opening of the ports of the Empire to American commerce, has met with the most favorable reception. Commodore PERRY had an interview with an Agent specially appointed by the Imperial Government, and presented his letter of credence and the letter of the President of the United States. The usual hostile demonstrations were made by the authorities on the arrival of the squadron, which were soon quieted, however, by a few warlike movements on board the steamers. The officers were treated with marked courtesy and respect, and every indication was given that their efforts would meet with the best success. The Commodore departed in a few days, with the intention of returning in the course of three or four months to receive the Emperor's reply.

The Chinese Revolution.

In our eagerness to give to our readers full accounts of the wars and rumors of wars in Europe, we had well nigh forgotten to chronicle the events of a struggle in a different quarter, equally as violent in its character and important in its results. The Chinese insurgents continue to advance steadily and without any serious reverses towards Pekin, the capital, by the capture of which the stronghold of the Government will be in their hands and the overthrow of the Tartar dynasty rendered certain. It was rumored that Pekin had already been taken, but this is considered doubtful. Our next accounts will, in all probability, bring us the news of its siege, and, without doubt, of its capture. The forces of the Empire have been almost entirely paralysed; the great body of the people regard the movement with indifference, and will be prompt to give in their adherence to the dominant party; and, indeed, everything looks to the complete success of the insurgent movement.

Sons of Temperance.

From the proceedings of the last session of the National Division, which met recently at Chicago, we glean the following statistics:—Number of members admitted, 62,000; number suspended, 12,000; whole number of contributing members, 198,985; whole number of Divisions, 4,808—making an average of about 41 members to each Division. The cash received during the year amounted to $141,000; and the amount expended for benefits, $104,000. Cash on hand, $579,000, and the expenses, exclusive of benefits, $288,389.

The North-West Passage.

The discovery of a passage through the Polar Sea from the Atlantic to the Pacific, which has been sought after by navigators as assiduously as ever the Alchymists of old hunted for the Philosopher's stone, has been made by Capt. McClure, of the British ship Investigator, and Lieut. Pim of the ship Resolute. An interval of about 170 miles, which separated the two vessels, was crossed on foot by the daring explorers; and it is confidently expected that the entire distance would yet be accomplished by water. Although the passage can never be used as a commercial route, a proper appreciation of the advantages afforded by the solution of the problem must contribute much to the cause of science, and prove of incalculable benefit to the hardy adventurers who give "light" to the world.

The Investigator was unable to meet with any traces of the expedition under Sir John Franklin, or learn anything definite as to his melancholy fate; and the world is reluctantly compelled to grant the folly of further search. It was thought that the ill-fated vessels, the Erebus and Terror, were not crushed by icebergs or frozen up, but that they were capsized by being forced upon the surface of submerged ice.

[FOR THE PALMETTO STANDARD.]

The Chester Thespian Corps.

Messrs. Editors:—We were induced on Friday night last, to visit the village in order to witness the performance of the Chester Thespian Corps. Our expectations had been raised to a high pitch from the perusal of the play-bills, but they were more than realized by the gratification we experienced. When we take into account the short time, (only four days,) spent in preparation, the comparative inexperience of several of the actors, the want of space and scenery for proper stage effect, &c., the success of the first piece announced was highly flattering to the young gentlemen concerned. In fact, taking into consideration the circumstances we have mentioned, we are free to admit that we have seen the drama of "Robert Macaire" no better performed in some of our large theatres.

The two principal characters, Redmond and Bertrand, alias Robert Macaire and Jacques Strop, personated respectively by Messrs. WARDEN and COLEMAN, were most admirably executed. The audience was kept in a continual roar of laughter by the impudent assurance of the one and the nervous apprehensions and ludicrous mimicries of the other. The characters of Charles Germeuil, Dumont, Sergeant Loupy and Pierre, though of minor importance, were very creditably performed, and displayed a proper conception of the play and excellent powers of acting. The characters of Marie and Clementine were also very well sustained. Mrs. WARDEN, by her artless style of acting and graceful dancing, elicited the applause of a delighted audience. The death-scene, at the close of the play, riveted the attention and awakened the sympathy of all present, and the curtain fell amid a deep and thrilling silence.

We were very much pleased to observe among the audience so many persons, and especially so many of the fair sex from the country.—These efforts of our village friends to enliven the monotony of a country life, are creditable to themselves, and should be supported by a generous patronage. We understand that "Robert Macaire" will be repeated on Friday night next, with the very amusing farce of "The Irish Lion," in which Mr. and Mrs. WARDEN sustain the principal characters. In consequence of the performances of that evening being for the benefit of Mr. and Mrs. WARDEN, we have been informed that the price of admission will be fifty cents for all persons. We bespeak for them on that occasion a crowded house, and feel assured that all who witness the performance will be as much delighted as was

Gen. Cushing's Letter.

The following is a copy of a letter addressed by Gen. Cushing to Hon. R. Frothingham, one of the editors of the Boston Post. The occasion for the letter is explained upon its face, and its authoritative character is unmistakeably declared.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29, 1853.

Dear Sir: I perceive that in several counties of Massachusetts coalition senatorial tickets have been formed of associated democrats and free soilers. My judgment is, that the democrats who have participated in this have done worse than to commit a fatal error. They have abandoned a principle which is fundamental. To support or vote for the free-soilers of Massachusetts is to give countenance and power to persons engaged, avowedly, in the persistent agitation of the slavery question, and therefore hostile, in the extremest degree, to the determined policy of the administration. The President entertains immoveable convictions on this point, as I have had occasion to express to you heretofore; and all of us whom he has called to the public service here most heartily and zealously sustain his views on the subject, as being the only ones consistent with our personal honor, the success of the democratic party, the general welfare of the country, the integrity of the constitution or the permanency this Union. If there be any purpose more fixed than another in the mind of the President and those with whom he is accustomed to consult, it is that the dangerous element of abolitionism under whatever guise or form it may present itself, shall be crushed out, so far as this administration is concerned.

This the President declared in his inaugural; this he has declared ever ever since, at all times and in all places, when he had occasion to speak on the subject. While he does not assume to judge of the hearts of men who publicly avow sound principles, he only needs overt acts to show where they are, in order that his settled policy in the conduct of the affairs of the government shall be unequivocally manifested. Those who have apprehended halting or hesitating on the part of the President in treading any path which truth and patriotism open to him will find themselves greatly mistaken. He is up to this occasion. His policy was not hastily settled; while he occupies his present position it will never be departed from. The constitutional rights of all the States of this Union are as dear to him as the rights of New Hampshire. I have perceived from the outset that this great principle of the constitutional rights of the States is fastened in his thought as the corner stone of this Union. Depend upon it, no matter what consequences may impend over him, he will never allow it to be shaken by abolitionists or factionists, but will set his face like flint as well against right-hand back-slidings as against left-hand defections, which may prejudice or embarrass the onward progress of the republic.

I remain, very truly yours,

C. CUSHING.

Ellen Wylie,	96	"	Health delicate.
Mary Hartin,	11	"	Healthy.
Sarah Kitchens,	11	"	Healthy.
Jane L. Kitchens,	9	"	Healthy.

In addition to the foregoing, the funds of the Board are contributed to the support of the following Idiots and Lunatics, who do not reside at the Poor House, viz:

ALEXANDER HORN, a Lunatic in the Asylum at Columbia, at $100 per annum, payable half-yearly in advance, on the 1st of December and the 1st of June.

WALKER NEELY, an Idiot, in the care of his mother, Jane Neely, at $50 per annum, payable November 1st.

WILLIAM NURNERY, an Idiot, in care of James Lee, Agent of the Board, at $50 per annum, payable November 1st.

DORCAS CHAMBERS, a Lunatic, in the care of her son, John Dickey, Agent, at $30 per annum.

The Paupers are in the condition as stated above. They are well taken care of by the present Superintendent, Mr. FRANCIS A. HARDIN. The houses have been moved and repaired during the past spring and summer, which has added much to the comfort of the inmates.

Means of Support for the Poor.—The use of the plantation whereon the Poor Houses are built, containing 400 acres. Three field-hands, one hired. The labor of the paupers themselves, so far as they are able to render any, and of the Superintendent. These, with 13 per cent on the General Tax, constitute the means of the Board for the support of the paupers and lunatics under their charge.

So much as relates to an Order of the Court, passed at last Spring Term, relative to the Lyman family, the Board respectfully state that it met their prompt attention. The Superintendent was sent for them, but they refused to go to the Poor House. We are informed that old Mr. Lyman has since died, having devised his land to his son on condition that he would support and take care of his mother and two sisters. Further we know not. As to the open well and some ditches made by the King's Mountain Rail Road Company, and reported by the Grand Jury at last Term, the Board beg to say that they have the promise of the President of the Road that the same shall be attended to in a short time, to our satisfaction. As to the pauper, Mary Hamilton, who recently had her arm fractured by the Rail Road cars, we desire information as to what will be best to do with her. We had no fears until lately of her getting in the way of the cars, but she now seems heedless of danger and we fear she will ultimately be killed by them.

All which is respectfully submitted.

DOMESTIC ITEMS.

To Give a Horse an Appetite.—Mix occasionally one part of salt to four parts of wood ashes. It keeps them in good condition, also keeps off the botts.

For Swinney or Big Shoulder in Horses.—2 ounces Liquid Opodeldoc, 1 ounce of Spirits of Turpentine, 2 ounces of Spirits of Hartshorn, 3 ounces of Alcohol, 1 ounce of Tincture of Spanish Flies, and 2 ounces of Oil of Spike. It should be applied sparingly or it will blister.

Cure for Botts.—Give the horse 1 ounce of slaked lime three times a week for two or three weeks. Mix it with their food.

Grubs in Horses.—One ounce of strong vinegar, one ounce of chalk in powder. Mix it well, and drench the animal with it.

Founder in Horses.—Half a pint of vinegar, one gill of ground black mustard. Mix and administer to the horse. Then put him in action for an hour or two, or until he sweats thoroughly. Must be used within 36 hours after the founder.

Galls on Horses.—When horses become galled, or get the skin knocked off, apply a blister to the part immediately. Let it remain 15 minutes, then remove it. Apply to the part burnt leather, pulverized and mixed with lard. The application of the blister will prevent the inflammation extending, and the roots of the hair will not be destroyed. The ointment will promote the growth of the hair, and ensures its being reproduced in its original color.

Cough in Horses.—Tar water sprinkled over their fodder, and mixed with their grain will cure the cough of horses; if that is not convenient, make an infusion of cedar twigs and use the liquid as above.

To Make Butter Yellow.—Just before the termination of churning, put in the yolk of one or more eggs in proportion to the quantity.

To Prevent Murrain in Cattle.—Take equal parts salt and slaked lime. Mix and give two table spoonfuls twice a week during the prevalence of the disease.

Salt for Cattle.—The Prairie Farmer asserts from experience, that in the malarious region of the west, more disease may be prevented by salt among cattle, than by any other one thing.

To Increase the Milk of Cows.—Those who wish their cows to give large messes of milk in the winter should have them warm drink. The extra trouble will be more than repaid by the increased quantity. I would also recommend to milk rapidly and gently and never to beat or ill use them. It is better to milk three times a day than twice.

To Prevent Milk.—Put a spoonful of pulverized alum into a pan of milk, and it will remain sweet for several days.

Bad Flavor in Milk.—The flavor of turnips, cabbages, &c., can be much altered by introducing a pint of boiling water in each bucket of milk.

The Management of Fowls.—The rearing of poultry is a source of much more profit than is generally supposed.

Fowls require plenty of good food, pure water, an airy place from cold and storms, and cleanliness in their houses. Without these they cannot be healthy, and will not lay. Fowls should be fed regularly, and at stated times, and not left to pick up their food as they can get it. Regularity in feeding is as much a habit with fowls as with other animals, and they will not lay well unless they are fed regularly. Fowls should be fed three times a day, and the best time is as soon as it is light in the morning, at noon, and at sunset. Whatever food is given them should be clean and sweet. Sour food will make them sick, and they will not lay. Fowls should have a constant supply of water to drink. It will prevent drooping. Fowls kept from the ground will when young, eat seldom more than the grass. Should they have the grass or small cut, sprinkle pungents and pepper on equal proportions of each, in fresh butter. Give them a small bowl full of the bowl full of a tea-cup full of dough and boil. Feed with this mixture for two days, and then give them a little corn. Those that approach nearest the ground are the most prolific females, while those that are more upright produce males.

To Preserve Eggs.—Rub them with butter while fresh. They will keep in any quantity and prevent chickens. When transmitted to the south should be removed before setting. It is advisable to pack them in salt, the small end downward.

In the days of patriarchs a woman's wealth was the value of her flocks. When Abraham sent the jester of Rebekah asked her if she would go with the man? She said, I will go. Had she been a daughter of some fourteenth century she would, I believe, have answered in the words, "Oh, father, I go with him! Why, he would be sick. Go with him! Why, he would die!" And then she would have gone with him.

Humorous Reading.

WOMANS SOLICITUDE.

We were a good deal amused the other day, at a circumstance which occurred in one of the cars of the New York & Erie Railroad. It was witnessed by a friend whom no "good thing" ever escapes, and who thus describes it:

"On a seat two or three 'removes' from me, sat a smart Yankee-looking woman, with a dashing new silk gown, and a bonnet set jauntily upon her head, and beside her, looking out of the window, and every now and then thrusting out his head, sat a man, of a somewhat foreign air and manner.

"The woman watched him with every appearance of interest, and at last said to him:

"'Do you see that hand-bill there, telling you not to put your arms and head out of the car-windows?'

"The man made no reply, save to fix on the speaker a pair of pale, watery blue eyes; and presently out went his head again, and half his body, from the car window.

"'Do you understand English?' asked the woman.

"'Yaw!' was the reply.

"'Then why don't you keep your head out of the window?'

"There was no reply, of any kind, to this appeal.

"At length he put out his head a third time, just as the cars were passing a long wooden bridge. The lady started back, and once more exclaimed:

"'Do you understand English?'

"'Yaw—yaw!'

"'Then why don't you keep head out of the window? Want to get killed?'

"No response. And a fourth time he narrowly escaped collision with some passing object.

"The woman could restrain it no longer. 'Why don't you keep your head out of the window?' The next thing you know, your head will be smashed into a jelly and your brains will be all over my new silk dress—that is if you've got any—and I don't much believe you have!'

"We had all mistaken the object of the woman's solicitude, which at first seemed to be a tender regard for the safety of her fellow passenger, but when the true motive leaked out, coupled with the very equivocal compliment to the intelligence of a stranger, was hailed in the car that drowned the roar of the wheels."

A FISH STORY.

The following thrilling account is said to have been taken from the log book of a vessel now lying in port:

In the course of the voyage that dreadful disease, ship fever, broke out among the crew. One of the sailors, among the first victims, was accompanied by his son, a lad of fourteen years, who was strongly attached to his father, and remained with him day and night, and never could be persuaded to leave his sick father for a moment.

A large shark was seen every day following the vessel, evidently for the purpose of devouring any one who should die and be committed to the deep.

After lingering a few days, the sailor died. As it was the custom at sea, he was sewed up in a sheet, and for the purpose of sinking him, a cot or grindstone and a carpenter's axe were put in with him. The very impressive services of the Episcopal church were then read, and the body committed to the deep.

The poor boy who had watched the progress closely, plunged in after his father. Then succeeded the shark, who followed them. The next day, after this dreadful scene, as the shark continued to follow the vessel, for there were others sick on the vessel, one of the sailors proposed as they had a shark hook on board, to make an effort to take him.

They fastened the hook to a large rope and baited the hook with a piece of pork, threw it into the sea, and the shark instantly swallowed it. Having thus hooked him, by means of a windlass they hoisted him on board. After he was dead they prepared to open him, when one of the sailors stooping down for that purpose, suddenly paused, and after listening a few moments, declared most solemnly he heard a low muttering sound, which appeared to proceed from the shark. The sailors, after enjoying a hearty laugh at the scheme, proceeded to listen for themselves. When they were compelled to admit they heard a similar sound. They then proceeded to open the shark, when the mystery was explained:

It appears the sailor was not dead, but in a trance, and this son, on making this discovery, had by means of his knife, ripped open the sheet. Having thus liberated his father, they both went to work and righted on the old grind stone. The boy was turning, and the father was holding on the ship carpenter's axe, for the purpose of cutting their way out of their Jonah-like prison, which occasioned the noise heard by the sailors. As it was the hottest season of the year, and very little air stirring where they were at work, they were both sweating tremendously.

Great Family & Plantation Medicine.

WRIGHT'S

INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS.

THIS highly valuable preparation, esteemed above every other article of the kind in the North, has been utterly acquiring a like celebrity in the South and Southwest. It is a strictly original composition, and bases its claims upon its intrinsic merits, as adapted to the varied requirements of the human system. In fact, it has been justly styled "Nature's own Remedy," since the Pills, in their operation, answer precisely the indications which Nature points out. They possess the merit, also, of being entirely free from mercury, and all mineral admixture whatever.

In the fevers and other complaints incident to southern and southwestern life, these Pills are unsurpassed in efficacy. They have cured Yellow Fever after every other remedy had failed. They have broken up the Ague and Bilious Fever in all their forms. They are thoroughly anti-bilious in their action in whatever shape it may present itself—powerful for good, and yet innocent of injury.

It resorted to in time, this medicine will be found to answer all the requirements of the family and plantation. For Females at certain seasons there is none superior, if indeed, there be any equal to it. Even for Children afflicted with any of the prevalent disorders, a trial of it will suffice to place it upon the most favorable footing in the estimation of all concerned.

THE GREAT KENTUCKY SOUTHERN REMEDY,

DR. JOHN BULL'S

SARSAPARILLA.

It is acknowledged by all, that the strength of a chain is only equal to that of its weakest link, and it is equally true in the case of the human system, that the strength of the body is only equal to that of the weakest organ. Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla is compounded with special reference to the above facts, and is confidently recommended as a safe, reliable and effectual remedy for all diseases arising from impure blood, or a disordered state of the digestive organs. Those who have been long afflicted with any of the above complaints, and have become discouraged, and have given up all hope of ever being cured, should not despair, but give Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla a fair trial, and they will be convinced that there is a remedy that will cure them. Those who have been salivated by Mercury, or injured by the use of Mineral Poisons, will find in Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla a safe and certain remedy for all the diseases and affections resulting from the use of Mercury, and will be convinced that there is a remedy that will cure them.
